

Linking Generations: Advocacy Tools for Older Citizens on Behalf of Our Youngest Children

AARP Current Advocacy Work

Check here for updates on legislative activity impacting older Americans. Tools for engaging in advocacy work can be found here, but be sure to look elsewhere for specific information on advocating for children.

<http://www.aarp.org/issues/>

Child Welfare League of America

This page discusses legislative developments relating to kinship care. Begin here and explore the rest of this site for information on children's issues, state-level data and the Kinship Care Program created by this organization.

<http://www.cwla.org/advocacy/2006legpriorities02.htm>

Generations United

The Action Center and Resources sections of this site will connect you with the information and ideas you need to get involved in making the relationship between older and younger generations even stronger.

Link up to a virtual community of people engaging in similar activities.

<http://ipath.gu.org//index.asp>

National Association of Grandparents for Children's Rights

This nationwide coalition works to secure legal rights and protections for grandparents and monitors the administration of these services at all levels of government. Become an active member of the children's advocacy community and connect to others who are committed to these issues through this organization.

<http://www.grandparentsforchildren.org/>

Texans Care For Children: What You Can Do To Help Texas Children

Texans Care For Children describes several tools for becoming an effective children's advocate on an individual or group basis. Start here for everyday activities that make a difference.

<http://www.texanscareforchildren.org/innerpage.php?pageid=104>

Texas Silver Haired Legislature

This chapter of the Silver Haired Legislature works to involve older citizens in government and politics through non-partisan legislative activity.

<http://www.txshl.org/index.html>